GERMAN REPLY VERY UNSATISFACTORY VERDICT OF MAJORITY OF THE CABINET

WASHINGTON D. C. Library of Congress

President Wilson Determined That United States Must Ascertain Definitely and Promptly from Germany Whether She Intends to be Guided in Future by Accepted Principles of International Law.

HAS BEGUN PREPARATION OF NOTE TO BE SENT TO GERMANY [illegible]S WEEK

An Unfavorable Answer to Which Would Lead, It is Predicted in Official Quarters, to Severance of Diplomatic Relations With Germany—Americans Would be Warned of the Dangers Existing.

Washington, June 1. — President Wilson determined today that the United States must ascertain definitely and promptly from Germany whether that country intends in the future to be guided by the accepted principles of international law and the rights of neutrals, or to follow its own rules of maritime warfare.

The President listened to a varied expression of opinion at a meeting of his cabinet, taking little part in the discussion himself. Later, he began the preparation of a note to be dispatched before the end of this week, embodying his own ideas and what seemed to him the consensus of his official family.

The verdict of a majority of the cabinet was that the German reply to the American note following the sinking of the Lusitania was unresponsive and unsatisfactory, disregarding the good will of the United State, doubting its facts and disclaiming all blame for the destruction of the merchantman with American lives. The questions of fact raised by Germany were regarded as irrelevant at this time.

The trend of opinion was that the United States must learn soon whether Germany intends to recognize the hitherto accepted principle that neutrals may travel anywhere on the high seas on unarmed merchant ships, even if carrying contraband, and that merchantmen which do not resist capture must be visited and searched and the passengers and crew transferred to a place of safety before the vessel is destroyed.

May End Diplomatic Relations.

An unfavorable answer to this inquiry would lead, it was predicted in official quarters, to severance of diplomatic relations on the ground that the United States could not continue intercourse with a government which repudiated these principles. Steps would be taken to inform Americans of the dangers to which they were exposed as a result of this action, and such measures as necessary adopted to safeguard the lives and interests of citizens of the United States. Should Germany accept the principle in a way that would constitute a guarantee for the future, the American government would reiterate its demand for a "strict accountiability" for violations of this principle and the killing of Americans on the Lusitania.

The decision to base the American note on the principles of international law to obtain an affirmative or negative reply and not enter into a technical discussion of details raised in the German communication, was the single development of the cabinet council. Some members favored even excluding any reference to the facts asked for by Germany, settling first the point as to whether Germany intended to disregard the American warning of last February that it would insist upon the exercise of the right of visit and search with respect to vessels on which Americans were traveling.

One cabinet officer believed the American government should enter into an investigation of the points raised by the German answer, submitting its proof and giving the German government an opportunity to do likewise. Others, however, declared that such a process would mean only delay, and in the event of a deadlock on facts, would leave the United States, which had already assured itself of the authenticity of its information and whose good faith was at stake, without remedy for the present or future, attacks on American vessels having been committed, notwithstanding assurances to the contrary. The opinion was general that the United States would re-state that the Lusitania was unarmed and would ignore such questions as to whether the carriage of ammunition is a violation of American law.

Bernstorff Calls Today.

Tomorrow Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, will call on President Wilson. The ambassador requested the interview. He declined to say tonight what he proposed to discuss. In well informed quarters the belief was expressed that while the ambassador's visit might not affect the forthcoming note, what the President might say informally to the ambassador would be transmitted to the German government and be taken into consideration when the American communication is delivered in Berlin.

In some diplomatic quarters close to the German embassy it was said tonight that the ambassador would seek to elicit from President Wilson his views on how Germany could conduct her submarine warfare without interfering with neutrals and might suggest the separation of passenger and contraband traffic or the giving assurances that the British government would not arm its merchantmen carrying passengers.

Officials conversant with the position of the government indicated that none of these proposals would be considered until a definite acquiescence by Germany in the fundamental principles of international law was obtained. Today's cabinet meeting indicated that the government did not intend to yield any rights which neutrals hitherto have possessed.

The cabinet divided two and a half hours in discussion of the European and Mexican situations. The President saw some callers earlier in the day. He showed no signs of strain. As the cabinet assembled in the executive offices, individual members by their attitude reflected the gravity of the situation.

No announcements were made after the meeting adjourned.

Confidence in President.

Expressions of confidence in the President came in telegrams from all parts of the country during the day. Members of the cabinet spoke of this, and declared that the President's view of the entire problem was such that he could be depended on in his action to maintain the honor and dignity of the country.

Officials reiterated today that the United States has absolute proof that the Lusitania was unarmed—that details of an investigation by customs inspectors at New York before the Lusitania sailed; the assurance of the British government that no merchantman would be permitted to sail armed from the United States, and a report by Collector Malone on all the articles in the Lusitania's cargo, including ammunition, were before the Washington government when the note of May 13 was written by the President.

It became known tonight that when the note was first drafted it pointed out that lives of American citizens could not be lawfully placed in jeopardy on merchantmen "which did not resist capture," but on mature deliberation and an investigation of all the facts the words "unarmed merchantmen" were inserted covering all cases in strict conformity with recognized principles of international law in the past.

Could Have Learned Status.

One of the suggestions made in official quarters today was that Germany easily could have learned the status of British merchantmen leaving American ports by inquiry at the State Department and that if, prior to the sailing of the Lusitania, information tending to prove that the Lusitania would carry guns on its voyage were in the possession of German submarine commanders, this should have been submitted to the American government so that measures could have been taken to convince the German government on this point and assure the safety of Americans on board the vessel.

Early in the war, it was explained at the State Department, instructions were sent to collectors of the various ports of the United States dealing with the questions of armament. While the carrying of a six-inch gun for defensive purposes on a merchantman to repel attack is a recognized right under international law, the United States nevertheless obtained from Great Britain assurances that her vessels would

NEW MEXICAN POLICY WILL BECOME KNOWN AT CAPITAL TODAY

Cabinet Yesterday in Long Session Decided on Change Toward Neighbor to the South—Restoration of Order Must be Soon — President Will Give Out His Statement to Factions and to Americans Today.

Washington, June 1.—President Wilson and his cabinet today adopted a new Mexican policy. It has for its object restoration of order and the relief of millions of non-combatants from the devastations of Mexico's military elements, which have brought about conditions described as intolerable.

The President read to the cabinet a statement to be communicated tomorrow to the leaders of all Mexican factions, serving notice that unless they themselves compose the situation, some other means will be found by the United States to bring about the establishment of a stable government. The statement was approved after prolonged discussion. It will be made public tomorrow.

The specific course the United States will pursue in the event the contending factions fail to agree is not outlined in the President's statement, but the administration's present purpose is to give moral support to a coalition of the best elements in Mexico, and accord the government thereby created formal recognition. With such recognition would come an embargo on arms permitting the constituted government to receive munitions of war to the exclusion of all other elements and factions.

Intervention Possible.

That the government's policy, if unsuccessful in this course, might require ultimate intervention has been considered, and the intention to insist on a settlement has not been swayed by the possible necessity of such action. In high executive quarters, however, confidence prevails that the expression of the American government's attitude will clear up misapprehensions that have existed in Mexico as to its intentions and bring about the desired coalition government.

The administration's policy is the culmination of several weeks of conferences between the President and his official family. The return of Duval West, who spent three months personally investigating conditions in Mexico for the President, was the deciding factor.

The American Red Cross already has laid plans for relief work to be carried out in co-operation with the State Department.

The Carranza agency here has issued several statements denying shortage of food and saying the stories of famine are exaggerated but the Washington government is not taking these into consideration because of its own reports.

In this connection Elliseo Arredondo, head of the Carranza agency, made public tonight the following telegram from General Carranza dated Vera Cruz:

Telegram from Carranza.

"The late military successes have made clear the triumph of our cause and, therefore, I have allowed the free importation of all kinds of food supplies into the City of Mexico."

The Washington government has repeatedly received assurances from General Carranza that food would be permitted to be shipped to Mexico City to relieve famine conditions. Official reports, however, told a few days ago of the seizure by Carranza troops of a large shipment of corn, started for the capital. A statement by Arredondo tonight reiterated denial of this charge.

Talk of an embargo on arms was revived in official quarters today. Miss Mabel Boardman, of the American Red Cross, forwarded some suggestions to the White House that an embargo be declared, but later a statement was issued at the Red Cross headquarters saying this suggestions was not made by the society itself.

Reports from many sections of the Southern Republic were made public tonight by the Red Cross telling of looting and suffering. Among these were telegrams announcing that both the Villa and Carranza forces were looting the property of an American citizen named Ochner, at Colima. One of these messages added:

"Carranza guarantees futile. His orders for protection of rights and property of foreigners largely ignored. It is clear that neither high nor subordinate military officers, can enforce orders, even if sincere in desire to protect foreigners. The situation now is entirely one of local issue, and graft affecting and concerning the local military leader only."

Persons fleeing from Mexico City, the reports said, "confirm all the reports of the desperate situation, and agree in fear of demands on foreigners and reprisals if supply of corn for populace should fail."

At Hermosillo, Sonora, according to mail advices received today, there is a "terrible state of affairs, and there are fears that the looting of the whole town is only postponed."

Statement Given Out.

Eliseo Arredondo, head of the Carranza agency, gave out a statement tonight saying:

"I am directed by Mr. Carranza today to say that the scandal provoked in the press of the United States over the exaggerated shortage of foodstuffs in the City of Mexico has for its only source the violent complaints of a group of residents of the capital called 'The International Committee'.

"I am authorized by the Constitutionalist government which I represent here, to make an emphatic denial that any forces of Mr. Carranza have intercepted the importation of the 600 tons of corn so often alluded to in press reports, even though those interested in giving it circulation may have succeeded in inducing the Brazilian minister, in charge of American interests in Mexico, to voice the same as authentic. My government furthermore directs me to bring to the attention of the American people that the description of conditions in Mexico as sent to the Department of State, and to the press is highly exaggerated and I am directed to call especial attention to the fact that the City of Mexico is controlled by the Zapatista forces and not by those of my government.

"General Carranza has ready 800,000 bushels of corn for the relief of Mexico City, and the only reason he does not send it into the city, in advance of his troops is that it would fall into the hands of the Zapatistas and be used to feed his enemies without the slightest chance of relieving the suffering of the poor."

NEED NOT BE RE-ELECTED.

If Next British Parliament Passes Bill Concerning New Ministry.

London, June 1.—The ministers who received cabinet appointments in the recent reconstruction of the government will not be required to seek parliamentary re-election as is ordinarily required by law, if a measure proposed by the government tonight is adopted.

It is officially announced that when parliament reconvenes next Thursday a bill will be introduced providing that during the war it will not be necessary for ministers to stand for re-election. The passage of this bill which is a foregone conclusion, will enable the ministers to take their seats in the cabinet and at once settle down to business.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE UNION PLEADS FOR PEACE

Says Only One Side of Question Heard and States That From Twenty to Twenty-Five Million Loyal Citizens of the United States Sympathize With Teutonic Allies.

New York, June 1.—Dr. G. E. Berkemeier, chairman of the executive committee of the American Independence Union, of which Richard Bartholdt, former representative in Congress from Missouri, is president, and Herman Ridder honorary president, signed a message sent tonight to President Wilson embodying a resolution passed by the committee which appeals for a continuance of the nation's neutrality in the war.

"We feel," the message reads, "that the greatest danger which threatens us is the violation of that neutrality which you have so solemnly enjoined on our nation at the outbreak of the war. We beseech you to use every means consistent with the honor and dignity of our country to uphold this neutrality."

The message says that "only the one party has full opportunity of presenting its side" of "the great question now agitating our country," and that "there are twenty to twenty-five million loyal citizens of the United States who are in sympathy with Germany and Austria and profoundly convinced of their righteous cause."

The message assures the President of the unhesitating loyalty of those in whose behalf it is sent and of their "unflinching fidelity to the cause of their country."

VETERANS PLEDGE FULL SUPPORT TO CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Warriors of the Confederacy Reiterate Their Loyalty to the Union.

FIVE THOUSAND THERE

Shout Themselves Hoarse Pledging President Support in Any Crisis.

Richmond, Va., June 1.—Thousands of veteran survivors of the Confederacy in reunion here today trudged through torrents of rain to cheer to the echo the hopes expressed by their leaders that peace in America may not be disturbed by the war in Europe. Grizzled wearers of the gray, enthused in the Twenty-fifth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, reiterated their loyalty to the Union, shouted themselves hoarse in pledging support to the President of the United States in any crisis, and bowed assent to prayers that those who guide the destinies of the Republic might be blessed with wisdom to deal with pending international affairs.

More than 5,000 of the sturdy followerers of Lee are here, and at the opening session of their reunion shared their plaudits alike for the rollicking air of "Dixie" and martial strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" while the Stars and Bars and the Stars and Stripes floated from the housetops of the old capital of the Confederacy.

It was a day of tribute to their own departed comrades and one of fervent hope that their sons may never have to experience the baptism of fire that was theirs. This sentiment, uppermost in addresses of the day, brought the veterans to their feet repeatedly at Convention Hall, but the climax came at the close of an address by Dr. Henry W. Battle who declared:

Dr. Battle Draws Climax.

"Fifty years have passed since General Lee surrendered at Appomattox. Half a century of peace has brought us to this glad day in a people's history. The flag of the Union floats proudly over an undivided and indivisible people; a hundred million voices devoutly since 'The Star Spangled Banner.'

"We are indeed 'at home in our father's house.' Our President—God bless, protect and guide him—has his hand on the helm of the ship of state, directing her steady course through the storm-tossed waves of a world at war; our Secretary of the Navy is on deck; our Atorney General adds his learning to the country's jurisprudence; a Southern hero who wore the gray, now wears the robe of a Justice of the Supreme Court, in both houses of Congress Southern men hold the reins of power. Yes, we are at home in our father's house, at home to stay. Within our borders all is peace. God hasten the time, by prophets sung, when nation shall not rise up against nation and man's inhumanity to man make countless millions mourn; when every war horse shall be hitched to a plow, when every spear shall become a pruning hook, and every sword shall be converted into an implement of peaceful husbandry; when the Prince of Peace shall say 'I have gone up and

WILL ANTI-TRUST LAWS AFFECT EXPORT TRADE?

New England Merchants Ask the Trade Commission.

Combination to Promote Trade With South and Central American Nations Contemplated—Promoters Hesitate.

Boston, Mass., June 1.—Uncertainty over the application of the Sherman anti-trust act to combinations formed to promote export trade is one of the principal obstacles in the way of expanding business with South American countries, in the opinion of New England merchants expressed at a conference with the Federal Trade Commission today.

After several speakers had emphasized this statement, some urging that the act be amended. Joseph E. Davies, chairman of the commission, asserted that with both leading political parties committed to the spirit of the Sherman law, he thought it unlikely that Congress would be willing to make any change that might affect domestic trade. Succeeding speakers then pressed the expediency of changing the act so as to differentiate between its application to foreign and domestic trade.

Edward A. Filene, of Boston, declared that there should be a combination of American banks so powerful that they could successfully meet any foreign capital combination.

The banks and bankers of this country should be treated most liberally, he said, so that they might get great rewards for their aid.

The commission will listen to bankers and other business men tomorrow.

WALKER SENTENCED TO 30 YEARS IN PEN

Entered Submission to Second Degree Murder.

DID NOT GO TO TRIAL

Agreement to Submit Case Reached at Conference Between Attorneys and Solicitor Yesterday Morning.

Submitted by his attorneys on a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, which plea was accepted by the State and associate counsel, Jesse C. Walker was yesterday afternoon sentenced by Judge George Rountree, presiding over Superior Court at Burgaw, Pender county, to which court the case was moved on a change of venue from Southport, to a term of 30 years in the State penitentiary, for the killing of Sheriff Jackson Stanland, of Brunswick county, at Piggottsville, November 26, 1908.

Slated Monday to be taken up this afternoon, the disposition of the case yesterday afternoon followed a conference yesterday morning between William J. Bellamy, Esq., of this city, and Irvin B. Tucker, Esq., of Whiteville, counsel for the defense, and Solicitor Homer L. Lyon, Messrs. Cranmer & Davis, of Southport, and C. E. McCullen, Esq., of Burgaw, of the prosecution, of which conference an agreement was reached to submit Walker on a plea of murder in the second degree. When the matter was gone into at the afternoon session, the case was soon disposed of, and steps were immediately taken to notify the 200 men composing the special venire summond in the case, as well as the many witnesses from Brunswick, New Hanover and Columbus counties, that they need not appear today.

Walker will be removed to Raleigh today by Sheriff J. E. Robinson, of Brunswick county, and a deputy sheriff from Pender county, to begin at once the long sentence imposed upon him. He has been in jail at Burgaw since last Friday, when he was carried there from Southport, where he had been confined since his arrest in this city early in March.

When the case was taken up yesterday afternoon, three witnesses for the State were heard. Sheriff J. E. Robinson, who as deputy sheriff of Brunswick county at the time of the killing, was an eye witness to the shooting, related the details of the event; Ben Robinson, told of a threat by Walker against the sheriff previous to the killing and D. G. Hewett gave evidence to show that the defendant was acquainted with Sheriff Stanland.

Following the testimony of the three witnesses, and short statements to the court by several of the attorneys, William J. Bellamy, Esq., of this city, formally tendered the plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, and Solicitor Lyon and the attorneys associated with him in the prosecution formally accepted the plea.

Judge Rountree, in pronouncing sentence on the prisoner, made a few remarks in which he complimented the attorneys on both sides for the manner in which they had handled the case. He then sentenced Walker to 30 years in the State prison at Raleigh.

There was no reference in court yesterday to the report that Walker is wanted in Oklahoma for murder, having made his escape, according to the story, after serving only about one year of a 30-year sentence imposed on

WHAT IS NECESSARY TO SECURE MORE BUSINESS

Business Men and Bankers of U. S. Receive Message.

Delivered by Senor Santiago Perez at Philadelphia—Mayor of City Suggests Formation of "Nation of Nations."

Philadelphia, June 1.—Business men and bankers in the United States must not expect to develop trade with South and Central America unless they conform to the standards of those countries, make the right prices and are willing to extend terms of credit such as the southern republics have received from Europe in the past. This was the message delivered tonight in behalf of the delegates to the recent Pan-American financial conference by Senor Santiago Perez Triana, of Colombia, at a banquet in honor of the delegates by local business men and bankers.

Trade, said Senor Triana, is not conducted along altruistic lines but is a matter of dollars and cents. The United States, he pointed out, has a wonderful opportunity today to get the trade which Europe once had, but it must make the same effort to supply the needs of South and Central America as was made by European nations.

The visitors from the south listened today to a suggestion from Mayor Blankenburg that there should be a declaration of interdependence by 13 or more nations of the Western Hemisphere, which would assure safety on the seas to commerce and which should protect its ships with an international flag, the symbol of a new "nation of nations." The mayor spoke in Independence Hall.

Tomorrow the visitors will leave for Pittsburgh.

AUSTRO-GERMANS CONTRADICT THE RUSSIAN REPORT

Claims of Latter That Former's Grip on Przemysl is Broken Denied.

ARE STILL ADVANCING

Teutonic Allies Declare Campaign Running in Their Favor Everywhere.

London, June 1.—In the face of yesterday's Russian claims that the Austro-German grip of Przmsyal had been broken and that the offensive in the great Galician struggle had passed to the Russians, came both German and Austrian official statements tonight asserting that the Austro-German troops have been successful to the north and southeast of the fortress, that the forts girdling it to the north have fallen into their hands, while to the southeast they have wrested Stry from the Russians.

In fact the Austro-Germans say that the campaign is running in their favor everywhere i nthe eastern zone from Lltau in the south to the southernmost tip of the Galician battle line.

It is apparent that the Russians, since being forced back to the San, have been pushing up heavy reinforcements in the hope of adverting the fall of Przemysl. But the Austro-Germans undeterred by stupendous losses have as yet shown little disposition to accept a purely defensive role and the British critics seem to have been a bit premature in saying that the German thrust had definitely failed.

No British official communication was issued today. The French confine themselves, generally speaking to recounting their successes at Ablain St. Nazaire.

The German official statement ignores this and tells of minor gains elsewhere. It adds that the French effort to break through the German lines has failed.

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Declares That Russians Are Driven Back and Much Success Gained.

Vienna (via Amsterdam and London), June 1. — The following official communication was issued today:

"East of the San our troops were attacked Monday night along the entire front by strong Russian forces. This was especially true on the lower Lubaczowka, where superior forces attempted to advance. All the attacks were repulsed with severe losses to the enemy, who at some points retreated in disorder.

"On the lower San below Sieniawa, Russian attacks also failed.

"On the north front of Przemysl, Bavarian troops stormed three defenses of the forts, captured 1,400 prisioners and 28 heavy guns.

"South of the Dneister, the allied troops penetrated the enemy's defensive position, defeated the Russians and conquered Strey, the enemy retreating toward the Dneister. We captured 53 officers and over 9,000 prisoners, eight cannon and fifteen guns.

"On the Pruth and in Poland, the situation is unchanged.

"In the Italian war theatre, there has been an artillery combat on the plateau of Folgaria and Lavaronne, and minor fighting along the Corinthian frontier and in the district of Karfreit is proceeding."

WHAT ABOUT RUMANIA?

Rome Surprised That She Hasn't Joined in War on Austria.

Rome, (via Paris), June 1.—The Rome papers and people are absorbed in the question of the possible entrance of Bulgaria and Rumania i nthe war. There was a firm conviction among the people generally that Italy had only to declare war against Austria to bring in Rumania, but a week has passed and Rumania shows no disposition apparently to depart from her neutrality.

It is explained in certain authoritative circles that Rumania is still negotiating with the Entente powers for recognition of her claims. Late advices are to the effect that Russia especially is not inclined to give way to what she considers rather exaggerated demands, particularly in view of the fact that Italy is now at war, and this has already relieved the German and Austrian pressure, chiefly in Galicia.

BERLIN OFFICIAL REPORT.

Declares That French Attack on Extended Front Driven Back.

Berlin, via London, June 1.—The war office gave out the following statement today:

"The French yesterday attempted to break through further north. An attack on a front of about one and a half miles directed against our positions between the Souchez-Bethune road and the brook at Carency, broke down under our fire with heavy losses to the enemy. The only point at which hand-to-hand fighting developed was west of Souchez, where we were victorious.

"In the forest of Le Pretre we succeeded in recapturing the greater part of our lost trenches. Here the enemy suffered considerable losses.

"On the other sectors our artillery had some gratifying successes. As the result of one full hit on the French camp to the south of Mourmelon-Le-Grand, between 300 and 400 horses broke loose and rushed about in all directions. Numerous vehicles, including

W. A. FRENCH WINS CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Burke H. Bridgers Defeats C. E. Taylor For Consolation Cup

Second Flight Match Between Messrs. Skelding and James Postponed —Mixed Foursome Event Today.

(Contributed.)

After several postponements, due to unfavorable weather conditions, the finals of the first flight in the annual spring golf championship tournament of the Cape Fear Country club were played over the local courses yesterday afternoon and resulted in a victory for Mr. W. A. French over Dr. J. W. Stanly by a score of two up. Mr. French by this victory wins the title of club champion and the very handsome silver cup, donated by the president of the club, Mr. James T. Sears.

The finals in the consolation event were between Messrs. C. E. Taylor, Jr., and Burke H. Bridgers and was won by the latter by two up in 18 holes. The second flight event betewen Messrs. A. B. Skelding and C. M. James was postponed and will be played this afternoon. The mixed foursome event will also be played this afternoon immediately after the arrival of the 3 o'clock.

The anual club frolic will take place at the club house tomorrow evening when the cups and prizes will be awarded the winners in the spring tournament. The awarding of the prizes will be followed by a dance. Members of the Raleigh Country Club have been invited to come to Wilmington tomorrow for a return golf match. Many of the Raleigh players have expressed a desire to come to Wilmington to this match and it is hoped that they will be here for the frolic.

Interest yesterday naturally centered in the French-Stanly match as it carried with it the club championship. French started off with a rush taking the first two holes. On the third Stanly seemed to have a chance, French having put his second in the sand trap, but he recovered with a beautiful niblick shot, laying his ball dead for the hole and going down in four, taking the hole. On the fourth things again looked bad for Stanly but with a brilliant putt from the edge of the ditch into the cup he reduced his opponent's lead to two holes, then run the fifth and things looked decidedly better. But on the sixth French was in first and Stanly was too down again. They halved the seventh and Stanly took the eighth, but on the ninth French ran down along one from off the green, taking the hole with a four to Stanly five, enabling him to finish the round two to the good.

On the tenth French was again there with his putter running down another long one for a four. The next several holes were taken by first one player and then the other, Stanly reducing French's lead considerably, but never being able to even the match and French finished the second round still two to the good.

On the third round French again took the first, making him three up. The second was halved. Stanly then took the third and the fourth. He was now going strong while French seemed a little wild in his drives. On the fifth Stanly lined out a beauty for better than 20 yards while French sliced into the woods, being compelled to play straight out on his second. He sliced his third out into the woods while Stanly lined out another long one nearly to the bunker. French topped his fourth but jumped the bunker, leaving Stanly with an easy mashie shot for the hole with an excellent chance to even the match. Stanly, however, was too strong with his approach and overrun the green. French then laid a long one dead. Stanly made a good recovery coming back to the hole and had a fairly easy putt to even the match, but he missed and the hole was halved in six each. Stanly topped his drive in the sixth. French got a long one but sliced to the right of the trap. Stanly again had a good chance for the hole but missed his second completely. French made a good second, playing over the trap, narrowly missing a long putt for a three and the hole was halved in four each. On the seventh Stanly topped into the road and lost a stroke getting out. French lined out a nice one and followed it with a very long shot while Stanly topped three more in succession. French then ran up a long approach and was down in five, taking the hole and making dormie two.

On the eighth French drove into the woods. Stanly saw his chance and took it, getting a long straight one just short of the 200-yard mark. French found his ball against tree and had to lose a stroke playing out. He then topped his third while Stanly tried a long mashie for the green in his second but was short. French overran his approach, but laid the next one dead. Stanly was also dead in his approach putt and took the hole with a five, with French six. This left French dormie one.

Stanly then hooked a long one into the rough. French realizing the situation took it easy straight down the middle. Stanly found himself in serious trouble and lost two strokes in getting back to the course, leaving him with a long shot for the green. French then played safe, short of the water hazard, leaving him with two strokes to the good and in the better position. Stanly then played his fourth for the green but hooked into water hazard and it was evident that the hole and the match would go to French unless he also found the water. French to make assurance doubly sure played a high mashie, dropped down near the green, laid his next one close to the cup and was in his fifth, taking the hole and the match by the score of two up.

It was a splendid match both participants playing splendid golf. The medal score of the winner was 43.45 and 44 which was most excellent and Dr. Stanly was not many strokes behind. Dr. Stanly as the runner up wins the vice president's cup, donated by Mr. John R. Murchison. Dr. Stanly has the distinction of also having been the runner up last year and his many friends predict that another season will see him at the head of the list.

Mr. French is being congratulated on all sides on account of his well deserved victory. Not only yesterday but also throughout the entire tournament he has played most excellent golf.

The finals of the consolation between Messrs. Taylor and Bridgers was also a most interesting event. This match was for 18 holes and was nip and tuck for the first nine, Bridgers being one up at the end of the first round. Taylor squared things at the tenth and they were still even at the thirteenth. Bridgers took both the fourteenth and the fifteenth, making him two up. Taylor won the sixteenth with a five, leaving Bridgers one up. On the seventeenth he made the prettiest drive of the match for 225 yards against a strong wind. Bridgers was straight but short. He tried for a long brassie to the green but topped. Taylor then had easy chance for the hole but missed a mashie approach completely and was short in his third. Bridgers overran on his approach but recovered on the play back and had an easy putt for a five. Taylor missed a long putt for a five and Bridgers missed an easy out for the hole and the match, the hole being halved in six, leaving Taylor dormie one.

Taylor hooked into th erough and Bridgers drove a low hard ball into the ditch which bounced out and hung in the edge, leaving a playable mashie short which he executed safely. Taylor had a very bad lie and lost two strokes ending up with a stymie by a big pine. He then tried for a long iron for the green and in endeavoring to avoid the tree hooked back into the woods. Bridgers played the third safely over the water hazard up close to the green and was in in five to Taylor's seven, thus taking the hole and the match by two up.

Mr. Bridgers wins the Board of Governors' cup which is one of the handsomest silver cups offered in the history of the club.

UNIVERSITY MUST HAVE MORE MONEY

This Sentiment Outstanding Feature of Alumni Day.

COMPLAIN AT STATE

Financial Policy of the State Towards the Institution Sharply Criticised by Members of Alumni Association—Doughton.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., June 1.—The lodgment of a sharply defined complaint against the State by reason of its austere financial policy towards the University of North Carolina was the pivotal text of absorbing interest to alumni here today. The indictment was contained in the address of R. D. W. Connor, secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission, chief speaker of Alumni Day. The summary of his conclusions was that unless the State abandoned its fiscal policy toward the University, the institution would cease to grow, and following that immutable law of life—progress or retrogress—the University would decline in strength and power.

The complaint as registered against recent legislative bodies was a topic of concern to the alumni and others that participated in the Alumni Day exercises. The address was delivered in the morning. But the subject caught fire at the alumni luncheon held in Swain Hall this afternoon.

Hon. R. A. Doughton, of Alleghany county, prominent in the legislative halls in recent years, renewed a discussion of the topic. His renewal of the topic was by way of accounting for the attitude of the last two legislatures in making appropriations to the University. His explanation as to the policy pursued by the General Assembly of 1915 was that the financial committees were guided by the course dictated by the financial stringency made imminent by the European war. Accounting for the policy of immediately preceding legislative bodies, he attributed it to the fact that in many sections of North Carolina prejudice had arisen against the institution.

"But," said Mr. Doughton, "I am glad to note that these prejudices are rapidly receding."

The prominent legislator from Alleghany expressed the confident note of optimism that the time would come in North Carolina when the State would fully and completely answer the financial demands requested by its University. He heartily anticipated the arrival of the desired consummation. His sentiments caught an attentive ear.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Francis D. Winston, toastmaster of the luncheon; Col. Robert Bingham, of Bingham School; Dr. Stephen B. Weeks, of Washington, D. C., and John D. McCall, of Charlotte, were in accord with the sentiments. They voiced their sentiments at the Alumni luncheon.

Senior Class Exercises.

Amidst changing and uncertain weather conditions the second day's exercises of the commencement of the University of North Carolina took place yesterday. At 9:30 A. M. the seniors gathered in front of Memorial hall and marched to the chapel for prayers. These prayers were followed by a short recess after which the Class Day exercises were begun in Gerrard hall. The meeting was presided over by O. C. Nance, vice president of the senior class. The history of the class of '15 was read by Walter P. Fuller, historian of the class.

In presenting the class gift, B. L. Field said:

"In leaving behind us a gift which shall benefit the university and call to her recollection the esteem of the class of '15 for her dear old alma mater, we have sought to make a more practical gift, one that will be of real service to the university in the extension of her work. We have decided that each senior shall pay the university $35 to be paid in five yearly payments, the whole amount to be paid before the reunion of the class in 1920. We do this not as payment for services rendered but as a heartfelt appreciation of the noble way in which alma mater has taught us to live."

The meeting was then turned over to President E. K. Graham who conducted the contest for the Wiley P. Mangum medal. The speakers who contested for this prize were: C. B. Woltz, who spoke on "Democracy and Its Relation to Law"; J. V. Whitfield, whose subject was, "The American Tenant"; L. Bruce Gunter, who spoke on "An Extended Vision", and Thomas C. Boushall, who spoke on "The Mission of Industrial Democracy."

The closing exercises of the senior class were held in the afternoon at 5 o'clock in Gerrard hall. The class statistics were read by J. Sheppard Bryan. The class prophecy, full of humor and well gotten up, was given by R. G. Fitzgerald. Thomas C. Boushall read the last will and testament. The class poem was read by D. H. Killifer.

Mr. Whitfield's Address.

In his address in the contest, Mr. J. V. Whitfield, whose home is at Wallace, Duplin county, said:

"Tenancy began immediately after the Civil War. It arose out of economic necessity. The land-owners were land poor and crude labor was poverty-stricken. Under the circumstances our tenancy system of farming was probably inevitable and unavoidable. Still we have had ample time to analyze the system; but we have yet to make a serious effort to remedy the conditions.

"The evils of tenancy are two-fold in character—economic and social. The most destructive problem of all lies in the landless and homeless condition of the tenants. Civilization depends upon the home-owning, home-loving, home-defending instinct, and the sense of law and order that land-ownership inspires. Land-ownership for the few and tenancy for the many is a dangerous economic and social condition upon which to build any civilization."

Mr. Whitfield then proceeded to show the government attitude to tenancy:

"Instead of attempting to change these conditions, the government has been instrumental in creating and perpetuating this system. Ours has been a commercial and manufacuring policy instead of an agricultural one. We have not yet discovered that the prosperity of the world as a whole will and must depend upon its primary or extractive industries of which agriculture is the most important. It may be safe for one nation to depend for its living on the sale of its manufactured products on foreign markets, but for every nation to do so will mean economic ruin.

"In the settling of the West the government has allowed immense tracts of land to get into the possession of railroads, foreign individuals, and syndicates. Fifty-four individuals and syndicates own in America an area greater than seven of our eastern states. Sow land monopoly and you reap tenancy—the government did that."

Mr. Whitfield proposed the following remedy:

"The problem is not unsolvable, but we must see how necessary that it is for the generations unborn that it might be solved. We could not find a better method than that of the Dane—under which system the tenant can acquire land and equipment on 50-year loans at 4 per cent—a rate which pays the interest and creates a sinking fund to pay off the debt.

"The hope of America—rural and industrial—lies in home owners, not in tenants of any kind. The farm home has resisted the disintegrating influences of modern industrial civilization better than any other home in Christendom. The chances of the landless and homeless men are steadily dwindling and therein lies the danger for both them and the nation in which they live. We have abolished chattel slavery; let us abolish economic slavery."

COBB COUNTY CITIZENS PRESENT RESOLUTIONS

Protesting Against Commutation of Frank's Sentence

One of the Commissioners in Questioning a Member of the Delegation Told of a Case Where Commutation Recommended.

Atlanta, Ga., June 1.—The Georgia prison commission granted a hearing here today to a delegation of Cobb county citizens, who presented a protest, formulated at a mass meeting in Marietta last night against Leo M. Frank's application for commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment. Mary Phagan, for whose murder Frank was convicted, formerly lived in Cobb county.

Spokesmen of the delegation declared they represented almost the entire population of Cobb county.

"We believe in the enforcement of the law in this case," they declared, "and we believe the evidence shows Frank guilty. The jury and the court have said so."

They asserted the courts had held that the prisoner had a fair trial.

Fred Morris, one of the speakers, said: "There is no ground in this case on which to ask a commutation of sentence."

T. E. Patterson, a member of the commission, interrupted the speaker: "Judge Roan in his letter said he had daubts of Frank's guilt," said Mr. Patterson. "He thought a man ought not be hanged unless the jury, the judge and the governor were satisfied of the man's guilt, and Judge Roan was not satisfied."

"Judge Roan in his letter, did not express anything not stated before," replied Mr. Morris.

"Yes, he did," said Commissioner Patterson. "He expressed a doubt as to his own action in refusing Frank a new trial. Previously his doubt was as to the correctness of the jury's verdict. In another case before this board there was not a reasonable doubt, but only an element of doubt. So we recommended a commutation."

Before the Recorder.

Hunch Holly, a negro who has figured in several cases in the Recorder's court recently, and Nora Nixon, also colored, were taxed with the costs yesterday for engaging in an affray. Chas. Peterson, colored, was also taxed with the costs for violating the hitching ordinance.

SOME HOT FIGHT AHEAD IN THE SIXTH DISTRICT

"Lay of the Land" as Seen by Dunn Correspondent

Young, of Harnett, Might Throw His Hat in the Ring Against Godwin. "Dope" for and Against the Congressman.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Dunn, N. C., June 1.—With a probable candidate in every county of the district, it appears that the next congressional fight in the Sixth will be one whose ferocity will have known no precedent. Here in Dunn, where Hannibal L. Godwin, incumbent, grew to manhood, taught school and hung out his first shingle for the practice of law, there are some who feel that his four terms as national representative have given him a hold upon the people whose tenacity compares favorably with that of well-known brindle-legged bull pup, and their view is that the breaking of that hold is a job too big for any man who has yet shown a disposition to enter the lists against him.

Others there are, however, who express the view that Godwin's grip has begun to loosen without interference from the outside—slipped of its own volition, so to speak. Locally, much of the blame for Harnett's backslide from Democratic righteousness is laid at his door. Some say that his contribution to the county campaign fund should have been much larger and that, instead of appearing as a disinterested onlooker in the last campaign, he should have waded into the fight against the resuscitated radical cause.

In addition to this, it is said that there is a growing impatience among the people of those counties to the south where there are tremendous expanses of swamp land whose drainage by the government has been expected ever since Godwin was first inducted into office. And, too, the Croatans of Robeson are still awaiting recognition as members of the Cherokee tribe—and the eight dollars per annum attendant upon that recognition.

Over in Cumberland, Quincy K. Nimocks is said to be compiling a lot of data which, it is said, will show that he has not worked as hard as his constituents suppose; down Wilmington way the sun of Joseph W. Little is just beginning to peek over the horizon, but, even now, its rays are attracting the gaze of many of the faithful toward the East; in Robeson, Godwin has a new opposing factor in the Lumberton Tribune—owned by A. C. Johnston, who, as editor of the Rowland Sun, was his staunch supporter before the last campaign—and that virile old gentleman, dubbed "Young" Harker by the daily press, while quiet in several languages right now, will probably land upon Harnett's son like a ton of coal just as soon as the campaign opens up; and the string of papers controlled by a Wilmington concern will hardly lend its strength to keeping his hat in the ring. O. L. Clark may or may not be induced to become a candidate, but it is not improbable that he will throw his strength against the man who gave him the "hook" after that well-rememebered convention at Wrightsville Beach; and right here in Harnett there is Ernest F. Young to be reckoned with, if that gentleman yields to the solicitations of a number of friends in all parts of the district.

Young is the fellow who put the "du" in Dunn. He came down here about the time it was first discovered that Harnett soil would produce something other than turpentine trees; built Dunn's first brick store, established its first bank, furnished capital for its first manufacturing industries and brains for the development of its resources. He put the town upon the map. Then along came playful old Fate with a series of catastrophes and jumped all of Ernest's kings off the board, placing him, financially, several paces to the rear of the beginning point. Undeterred, however, he hiked up to Raleigh one day and came back with a license to practice law. Since then he has proved that there is something radically wrong with the theory that a man can't "come back." He has arrived for the second time; his resiliency is that of new live rubber, and, if he does decide to enter the fray, Mr. Godwin's work is already cut out for him—that is, in Harnett, at any rate.

Mr. Godwin refuses to snow perturbation, however. He says he never does his fighting until the task is before him, and that post-campaign predictions and charges have never cut down his majorities. When the time comes he will probably live up to his promise to be on the job.

Safety+Quickness

"Safety First" must ever be the watchword in firearms. But safety must not be secured at the expense of quick action. The Colt Automatic Pistol combines the most dependable kind of safety—automatic safety—with instant firing.

The Colt can't be discharged accidentally, because the trigger must be pulled and the safety in the grip must be pressed in at the same instant and this can't be done except it is done purposely. So much for safety.

As for quickness, the Colt always gets there first, for in an emergency you don't have to bother with or think about the grip safety—it takes care of itself and you.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1915.

Some men don't want war to come to them any more than they want to go to war.

We cannot possibly help what happens after it has come to the worst. We are even lucky if the worst is not yet to come.

In addition to refusing a gold brick, also refrain from taking in a war zone in a manner equally as confiding as one who buys a pig in a poke.

If English sparrows were about the size of chickens they would know better than to insist on constituting more than half the inhabitants of the city.

Being an Italian in the army is not so nice as being an Italian in the United States where he can "playa da org and maka da monk getta da jit."

When you tell a man that he was right and you were wrong, he is so proud of it that he can be stuck for a soft drink that costs only a jit.

We always thought Americans were too intelligent to think that they could go into a war zone without taking chances. We have to quit thinking that.

We have forgotten already the names of those who were on the programme for a honk at Mohonk. There will be a great deal more honk at Mohonk next summer.

When war starts anywhere we fully expect one horror right after another. Being shocked during war is nothing more than we might expect in our moments of lucidity.

Theoretically, "it is sweet to die for one's country," but lots of men think it is very, very much sweeter to live in the city and let the rural uplift movement take care of the country.

A college professor by the name of Taft is saying things that most college professors couldn't say if they tried. They generally say something that keeps the paragraphers from taking life seriously.

The Jacksonville Times-Union remarks: "A California woman has to pay alimony to her divorced husband, but that woman can vote just the same as a man." Being the fit subject of alimony would make some men feel almost 'sif they are in favor of equal rights for their rich wives.

Among other things which Professor Taft says is that the Progressives should be welcomed back to the Republican party "if they will leave off their fads and nostrums." Of course, we know what their fads are, but Professor Taft should state who the other nostrums are in addition to Colonel Roosevelt.

Now and then all of us have to be giddy and gay and frivolous, in order to keep from being grave and peculiar and grand—if not actually sphinx-like, grouchy and morosely fossilized. We have to keep up our spirits so our spirits can keep us from getting so "down in the mouth" that we'll want to "flee to the mountains of Hepsidam where the whangdoodle mourneth for his first-born."

The New Orleans States mentions that a New Orleans beauty who became infatuated with and married the dashing pianist of a cabaret has gone back to her parents and is suing for divorce on the ground of non-support. A New Orleans beauty is just like any other beauty who gets hungry when her mate fails to bring home something every Saturday night. It's "scat" with infatuation, "booh" with romance, when there is little to eat and "not a thing to wear." It's awful, Mabel, when the grub stake is not sufficient to provide steak for a beauty. Sometimes a fellow may start in by loving a girl well enough to eat her, but in some cases the girl wishes he had eaten her rather than let her do without eating herself. There is nothing curious about the great similarity of beauties when it comes to refreshments and habiliments in proportion. In order to be on the safe side a fellow ought to get the nest before he gets the bird.

WAR WILL BE WAR

The news from Washington in yesterday's Star plainly indicated that our people are approaching two crises, both of which the masterful statesmanship of President Wilson has so handled up to now as to avert the acute stages and not to reach the point where the last die is cast. Of course, that same wise statesmanship can be depended upon till the last moment for temporizing is up, but if that unfortunate eventuality should come, the American people will calmly meet their obligations to their country and humanity by doing their full duty.

We are now nearer to intervention in Mexico than we ever have been. The limit seems to have been about reached and we would not be surprised at any time if we have to take upon ourselves the responsibility and burden of restoring peace in Mexico to save her own people from themselves. Again, one more step towards a crisis in our relations with Germany is about to be seriously taken. Let us hope it will pass rapidly beyond any possibility of a rupture with a foreign nation with which we are at peace and hope to retain as a friend, but serious questions are up for settlement and till they are settled satisfactorily the future will not be reassuring. They have in them all the elements and prospects of grave international complications.

Of course, if we should have war with either Mexico or Germany, or both, all Americans will have to take a resolute position and no longer look upon either situation as a matter to be considered lightly. Rather, as the Chicago Tribune warns us, "the most dangerous and damaging fallacy that possibly could be devised is the theory that if the tragic extremity of war with Germany should be resorted to or forced upon us, we should or could fight it by proxy." Nothing of the kind. War will be war, and the men of this country will have to fight it to a finish. Here is what it means, according to The Tribune:

"If, war being declared, we restrict ourselves to making more munitions for France to use we should be held in the most just and lasting contempt. War, let us be perfectly certain, means no such shameful immunity as this. It means immediate action by our navy. It means immediate summons of our citizen soldiery. It means hundreds of thousands of green volunteers, and it means the dispatch to the war at the earliest moment of as large a force as we could whip into shape for active service. This would take months, but the time for battle would come unless for some reason not now discernible the war should end before it arrived. The American nation will not fight, if fight it must, with its money bags or its mouth. We are pacific, but not poltroons. If war is justified, it is worth not less than 'the last full measure of devotion.'"

Really, that is the serious condition which we face. That only briefly refers to it, however, for there is no telling what may happen between the beginning and the end. The press views published in The Star yesterday morning will not materially help President Wilson to perform a solemn duty. They were not the resolute view that he could safely adopt in the main, but they evidently voice public sentiment and to comply with that would leave little choice with the President. It is the same kind of public sentiment which President McKinley could not withstand in connection with Cuban intervention in 1898.

MUST BE LOYAL TO AMERICA.

Of course, in any trouble into which the United States might be involved with any country, it could rely on the loyalty of all Americans, whether native or adopted. So far as German-Americans are concerned, we have never taken any stock in the senseless crusade of a portion of the press against so-called hyphenated citizens and the uselessly offensive references to the hyphen. All are adopted citizens of this country, and the hyphen only indicates the origin of the citizen and has no reference to any dual nationality, as many writers have strained a point to intimate. The hyphen only conveys to us knowledge that we would woefully lack but for the hyphen, hence for this purpose, the term American by itself would not give us any idea as to whether they were of English, French, German, Polish or Russian origin.

Therefore, we do not hesitate to use the term German-American in saying that no class of citizens could be depended upon to be more loyal to their adopted country than they. This is their country and they so consider it. They left their native land behind for America because they desired to share its liberty and owe it allegiance in preference to any other country. They understood what they were doing when they took the oath of allegiance and became Americans instead of Germans. That is clearly illustrated in a brief speech made by our fellow citizen, Mr. S. Behrends, a German-American, who was selected to be the speaker of his kinsmen when the German warship Panther visited the port of Wilmington during the latter part of September and the first of October, 1903. Wilmington gave an enthusiastic and hearty welcome and reception to the German visitors, and it was an exceedingly enjoyable event, we well remember. Two separate receptions were given for the officers and the men of the Panther, and on this occasion Mr. Behrends said to his former countrymen:

"You will pardon us for having welcomed our guests and visitors in the language in which our mothers rocked us to sleep in our infancy, and our guests will consider it appropriate for us, when we speak of our own beloved country, to use the language in which our wives have rocked and are rocking our children to sleep.

"Welcoming our guests from a far country, recalls recollection of our childhood. We remember that our cradles were made of timber grown in the same country that furnished the timber for the masts of the ship in which our visitors arrived. But we also remember that the timber which furnishes shelter and dwellings for our own dear families grew in the mighty forests of our own beloved adopted country. For Germany and for you we entertain feelings of friendship, caused by recollections of childhood which would lead us to sympathize with you in any of your trouble. To the United States of America we owe allegiance caused by our duty, which would lead us in the future as it has in the past to seal the compact with our blood, as the numberless graves of the German-Americans will bear witness on the battlefields North and South, where they fell during the Civil War, dying in the defense of that section of our country which they had chosen for their home. The German-Americans were largely represented in the ranks that carried our flag in Cuba, the Philippine Islands and China. As German-Americans, we hope that the pleasant ties existing between Germany, our mother country, and the United States, our mother-in-law country, will never be severed; that peace and prosperity will prevail in both.

"Our friendship to Germania, our devotion to the United States of America—may kind Providence protect them both!"

Mr. Behrends spoke then in almost prophetic terms. He breathed the true American spirit of German-Americans, and at this time Mr. Behrends' statements can only be the sentiments of practically every citizen of German origin in America. This is their country and their children's country and naturally their allegiance is a guarantee of their loyalty.

By the way, the Panther was sunk by the British in the North Sea early after the outbreak of the present war.

VISIBLE DIVERSIFICATION.

"Aunt Becky", an intellectual and practical Robeson county lady, frequently contributes interesting and valuable articles to the Lumberton Robesonian and the Maxton Scottish Chief, two excellent Robeson county papers. When Aunt Becky writes she has something worth while to say, and her observations are as keen as her newspaper communications are to the point. In The Robesonian of Monday, she gives a most entertaining account of an automobile trip through the fine farming section of Robeson county, North Carolina, and the adjoining South Carolina county of Marlboro.

From her home at Old Fork, Robeson county, she writes that rain is plentiful and the farmers are busy fighting grass which grows like magic in this country when the showers come so frequently as they have here of late. However, she says the crops around the Fork are generally clean and looking good for the season. Writing under date of May 27th, she makes this cheering reference to the visible crop diversification seen by her en route:

"I took a trip down to Dillon county last week through the country. On account of roads our journey was necessarily lengthened to 36 instead of 25 miles, and our route was via Clio, and through the great Dunahoe farm, which has hitherto been producing hundreds of bales of cotton; but the scene this year is transformed into vast areas of fine corn, wheat and oats. In fact, this status prevailed on the majority of farms from Clio all the way down. Wheat was especially in evidence, and at the Clio depot we noted a quantity of reapers and binders in readiness for the harvest. The grain is rapidly ripening down there, with several fields about ready to mow. We saw one field of beautiful oats and vetch near the town of Dillon, and one of splendid bearded wheat on the Dunahoe place. This looks like prosperity, and without some future misfortune those farmers will be independent of the wheat and corn market. In Mr. McLaurin's section of the county considerable tobacco is grown, and the plants look vigorous and strong."

Aunt Becky saw all this with her own eyes and you don't have to tell her that the intelligent farmers of the Carolinas, where they join in a land of rich resources and productiveness, are not planting all cotton but have diversified their crops on practical lines. She is a good witness to that effect, and the best part of it is that she says it is general. Furthermore, the fine crops of wheat, oats, tobacco, etc., convince her that the marvelous agricultural adaptabilities of this country will make its farmers independent of Western flour, wheat, corn and forage supplies. The land is here and so are the crops, and the farmers seem to have come to the conclusion that they are going to take care of themselves.

Certainly they will do so, for they can grow equally fine crops of cotton, tobacco, corn, wheat, oats and whatever else most any land on earth can produce. Good roads also seem to be in evidence, since they enabled Aunt Becky to make a trip of 36 miles through as fine a country as can be seen in America.

Robeson and Marlboro had bettor get them some flour and grist mills, if they haven't got them. Grain growing has come to stay, and milling industries will assure it. Farmers already are gathering money crops at this early season and don't have to wait for September and October to get what cotton money is coming to them. A live farmer will know how to market his grain, just as he knows how to sell cotton and tobacco. You can't catch us believing our wide-awake farmers are going to take up time wondering about or worrying over the marketing question.

The Star is a crop diversification paper. We are stuck on cotton as much as anybody, but we are not stuck on all cotton. We want to see this section prove itself to be the most marvelous part of America for the limitless varieties of crops that it can produce with lavish abundance.

The Jacksonville Times-Union complains that Florida is importing guava jelly from Cuba, whereas Florida produces guavas and would not have to import jelly if she would make it herself. That's nothing. Wilmington ships lumber North and buys it back at a high price after it is made into doors, sash, blinds, moulding, etc., which could be made cheaper in Wilmington.

BARBARISM AS ARBITER.

If any evidence were needed to convince civilized man that war is a crime against humanity, the present war in Europe is all sufficient. It shows to what length human passions can be swept and universal prejudices can be aroused. Yet the horrors of war and its awful consequences to humanity constitute the overpowering proof of the terrible fact that war typifies the extreme limit of barbarism, an appeal to which so-called civilized man resorts when his reason and intellect fail him in a crisis.

There is no feature of war that is not palpably barbarous, and dependence on war is but a final appeal to barbarism as an arbiter for civilized men. Slaying hundreds of thousands of men in battle, making widows and orphans; starving women and children, and sinking ships with their helpless victims into the depths of a remorseless ocean are the equally monstrous and horrible elements that make war hell. There is hardly any single feature or element of war that is less horrifying than another, even though humanity may single out some one element about which especially to stand aghast.

Nevertheless, civilized nations go on meeting barbarism with barbarism by resorting to war. If we will only contemplate the actual horrors of war, our civilized senses will revolt at the atrocity of not one but all incidents logically characterising war as crime.

Are civilized nations going to continue to resort to crime to punish national offenses?

CURRENT COMMENT.

Wilmington is taking another advance step in the building and equipping of a hospital for the care and treatment of sick babies, the milk supply of the city having been first looked after. A fund of $20,000 is available for the erection of the hospital and the movement is in the hands of a committee of men and women who will prosecute it to a successful conclusion. It is probable that Wilmington will have the first hospital for babies in the State, and in looking to the interest of the infant citizens Wilmington will be starting at the right end of the community welfare problem.—Charlotte Observer.

It has been suggested that the graduating exercises of the graded school commencement and the literary address of Mr. Herbert McClammy, of Wilmington, be held at the court house and that all business houses be asked to close during the hour Mr. McClammy will speak. These are scheduled for Friday morning, beginning with the graduating exercises at 10 o'clock. Some merchants have already been seen and have agreed to close for an hour and go to hear the address which probably will be from about 11:30 to 12:30. This is an excellent plan and it is to be hoped that every business house in town will close at least during the hour devoted to the literary address and that as many men as can possibly do so will attend the graduating exercises. Let's show the young ladies and the young men who compose the graduating class that everybody in Lumberton is interested in them; let's show them that the school is the most important institution in the community in our estimation.—Lumberton Robesonian.

The roadbed of the old Carolina Central was scarcely settled when Mr. H. T. Rollins began his career of postal clerk between Charlotte and Wilmington in one of its mail cars. The 188 miles' journey between the two places was rather an uncertain proposition at that time. It was not unusual for the train to mire in the mud. On one occasion when this happened in the McAlpine Creek cut, not far from Charlotte, Capt. "Butts" Everitt, the conductor, made a brakeman feel down and see if the wheel was on the rail or in the mud. When the brakeman announced that it was on the rail, the conductor signaled for the engineer to pull ahead and the train finally got out, but it left two of the biggest ruts in its wake ever seen in this country. Rollins has been riding the mail car continuously for 36 years and he could write a fine chapter of Carolina Central history if he ever gets the time and has the inclination. It is probable that Captain Baskerville and Engineer Misenheimer are the only remaining original Carolina Central Railroad men in service. Rollins has anchored at Hamlet, but he left a string tied to Charlotte and is likely to come back, for it is doubtful if the still life will agree with him.—Charlotte Observer.

All Babies Destined to Great Achievement

To be born is to be great. For there are possibilities in every tiny human infant. And for this reason every one should remember that whatever is done to aid the mother, to relieve her of distresses during her trying months, will surely be of marked benefit to the child.

Among the sterling aids is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend." It is what is called an embrocation. It is applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed in by your own hand guided by your own mind. It makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" refer to the absence of morning sickness, they are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all apprehension disappears and those peculiar nervous "fidgets" no longer disturb the nights. It is well named "Mother's Friend." Get a bottle today of any druggist. Then at once write for a most entertaining and instructive book for all prospective mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 705 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

This book explains the physical action of "Mother's Friend," tells why it enforces strength to the muscles and relieves undue strain. It also contains letters of experience from many happy mothers. It is just such a handy little book as every woman will at once recognize as just what she had always wished to read—plain facts about herself. The book is mailed free to any address. Write for it today.

GRADUATE NURSES ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Inspiring Address to Class by W. P. Stacy, Esq.

Closing Exercises of Training School of James Walker Memorial Hospital at Boys' Brigade Last Night—Well Attended.

Following an eloquent address by W. P. Stacy, Esq., of this city, in which the value of service was beautifully and strongly emphasized as the only means of achieving happiness in this life, diplomas were given to the six young ladies who have completed the course of study at the James Walker Memorial Hospital Training School for nurses, at the graduation exercises in the auditoriun. of the Boys' Brigade armory last evening. There were several hundred people in attendance and the exercises were most inspiring as well as being greatly enjoyed.

Dressed in white with their pretty white hospital caps and carrying large bouquets of white roses, the young ladies presented a beautiful appearance upon the stage, which had been attractively decorated with spring flowers and evergreens.

Those to whom diplomas were awarded last evening are Misses Marie Farley, Ethel Buckner, Addie Meares Perry, Lillian McDonald George, Cora Laird, Isley and Ellen C. Mullican. These young ladies have completed their three years of training at the school and as Dr. G. G. Thomas, who presided at the graduation exercises, so appropriately said, are now prepared to join that splendid band of over 70 nurses who have gone out from James Walker Memorial Hospital during the past 14 years.

Following the invocation by Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Dr. Thomas introduced Mr. Stacy, who delivered a strong and inspiring address. The hospital pins were conferred by Mr. W. H. Sprunt, a member of the board of managers, and Dr. H. M. Codington, superintendent of the hospital, then conferred the diplomas. The benediction was said by Rev. W. M. Craig, assistant pastor of the First Baptist church.

The High School orchestra under the direction of Miss Pauline Crumb rendered a number of very pleasing and enjoyable selections during the evening.

Seated on the front row of chairs in the auditorium were the undergraduate nurses and others of the hospital staff, while on the stage besides those who had a part on the programme were Mr. Sam Bear, Jr., president of the board of managers of the hospital, and Mr. DeWitt C. Love, and other members of the board.

"Flute Notes" was the theme of Mr. Stacy's address. He told of having been in a great city and having gone to hear a prima donna sing. Seated on the stage were the members of the orchestra, he said, while besides the prima donna there were also other singers. Away to one corner was a frail young lady who played the flute. Above all the splendid music of the evening could be heard the quaint sweet melody of her tiny instrument and it was that, said the speaker, that had most impressed him. He used this incident to illustrate the value of service in what may seem to be small and insignificant tasks.

He congratulated the young ladies on having chosen for their class motto, "To be rather than to seem." These words engraven upon the great seal of North Carolina, he said, have come to have an added significance. He emphasized the importance of the real as compared with the sham, the essence rather than the thrill, the person rather than the dress.

The speaker compared the world to a great stage in which there are many privileged to play an important part, some accumulating wealth, others achieving fame and some prominence, but most of the people have a small, insignificant part to play. There are the flute players whose parts are not conspicuous or spectacular. However, if they fail to do their part there will be something lacking. Wealth and fame are only of importance as a means to an end. Take away these who are rendering service and there would be little left worth striving for.

Nobody is bigger than his soul, he continued, and no State or nation, no people or race, is ever bigger than its soul. The soul of North Carolina is measured by its beneficent institutions. The soul of Wilmington is measured not by its buildings of bricks and mortar, not by its commerce and trade, not by its wealth or its material resources, but by such institutions as the James Walker Memorial Hospital whose aim and purpose is to render service to mankind.

The speaker next inquired as to what is the real goal of our lives. It cannot be wealth for fortune is a mere incident and we may say almost a mere accident. It cannot be fame or social position for these are of little moment in the final reckoning. The real end and purpose is to achieve the maximum of human happiness. This can only be reached through service to others. Happiness can never be obtained through selfish endeavor. The universal function of the soul must be to serve. How well we are succeeding in carrying out life's work cannot be known until the end.

The speaker illustrated his point by telling of the old man who spent his last years in making tapestry. It was only possible for him to know how well he had done his work until he had completed his task. So it is with human life. It is only when we have reached the end and are able to look back that we can see wherein we have succeeded best. He expressed the hope that the young ladies as they go out upon their careers might so live that in the end when looking back over life they may be able to see that their tasks have been done well, their burdens borne bravely and their service has been rendered unselfishly.

In conclusion the speaker recited "The House by the Side of the Road," with fine effect. This poem he said, embodied the message that he wished to bring. He was given an ovation at the close of his address, the applause being long and continuous.

Mr. Sprunt before presenting the hospital pins to the graduates told something about the history of the institution. The class this year is smaller than last year, when there were 14 graduates. There are nine young ladies in the class to be graduated next year. This marked the 14th commencement of the hospital and during its history more than 70 graduates have been given their diplomas by this institution.

He spoke briefly of the work of the hospital during the past year and also paid a tribute to the founder of the institution, the late James Walker, who gave half of his fortune to build the present structure and personally supervised its erection but did not live to see it completed. He said that during the past year there have been many donations made to the institution and while he could not undertake to mention them all he did wish to call especial attention to two which had been made. One of these is a room which has been equipped by Miss Lucile Murchison in memory of her mother and endowed with $5,000 for its support. The other was the sun parlor which was secured through the efforts of Miss Eria Roberts Swain.

In presenting the pins he gave the young ladies some helpful suggestions for their future work and congratulated them upon having successfully completed their course.

Dr. Codington in presenting the diplomas to the graduates, expressed his pleasure in being in Wilmington and extended a cordial invitation to the public to visit the hospital and learn of the splendid work that is being done there.

Dr. Thomas in a few well chosen words extended to the young ladies his best wishes and declared that the James Walker Memorial Hospital was doing a splendid work in preparing and training nurses. The benediction was then said by Rev. W. M. Craig.

CASWELL TRAINING SCHOOL

Dr. Joyner, Ex-Senator Baggett, Judge Allen and Others Speak at Closing Exercises.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 1.—Many people who attended exercises at the Caswell Training school near here yesterday noticed a great improvement in the children cared for there since the institution commenced operations just a year ago. Members of hte board of trustees complimented the superintendent, Dr. C. B. McNairy, the principal, Miss Shaw, and the faculty. The work of the teachers, as evidenced by the results, was the topic for most favorable comment. Several speakers called attention to it.

Hon. J. R. Baggett, former State senator, from Lillington, delivered the principal address. He discussed "Helping to Walk," and said he liked to think of the people of North Carolina taking the unfortunate children of the commonwealth in charge. He held up the school as a signboard to warn the people of the State of the wrongdoing of the forbears of the inmates of the institution. Dr. McNairy in a talk to the visitors declared that 95 per cent. of Feeble-mindedness was due to the carelessness of morals, etc., of parents. Judge Oliver H. Allen, of Superior court, made a short address.

Dr. J .Y. Joyner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, spoke briefly telling of his appreciation of the work the school is doing and commending the superintendent and faculty. Specimens of the drawing and other work of the youngsters in the school were exhibited and surprised the visitors. The display was as good as is seen in most institutions attended by children of like ages of normal mental faculties.

Past Grand Master Henry Banks, a prominent Georgia Mason, will be the guest of honor at the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Concord Chapter, No. 1, Royal Arch Masons, of this city, which will be held on June 19. The members of the chapter are making preparations for an elaborate celebration and it is expected that there will be a number of the North Carolina Grand Lodge officers in attendance.

Mr. Banks has visited Wilmington on several previous occasions and has a number of friends in the city. He is said to be an eloquent speaker.

CEMETERY WORKERS.

Contractor Now Has Work Well Under Way—Notice to Lot Owners.

Engineer A. D. O'Brien, the contractor, now has the work of laying the waterworks in Oakdale cemetery well under way, between 5,000 and 6,000 feet of the system having already been laid. In this connection the officers of the cemetery company desire to notify all lot owners who may wish private service laid into their lots to make application to the superintendent at once as the work may be done now much cheaper than later. The superintendent of the cemetery will take the orders and turn them over to the contractor to whom payment will be made by the lot owner direct.

Makes Inventory of Poles.

Mr. G. T. Williamson, superintendent of the fire alarm system of Wilmington, has completed making an inventory of the telephone, telegraph and telephone poles of the city. This inventory is made for the purpose of finding out the amount of taxes due by the different corporations, there being a tax of 20 cents annually on each pole located on the streets or other public property. The total revenue to the city from this source amount to $750. Following are the number of poles owned by the different corporations: Tidewater Power Company, 2,500; Southern bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, 1,235; Western Union Telegraph Company 26; Postal Telegraph Company 6.

BIG DEAL IN WHARF REALTY IS REPORTED

Total Amount Involved Approximates $175,000.

Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son Said to Be Purchasers—Said to Be for Additional Storage Facilities for Cotton.

For the purpose of increasing their storage and warehouse facilities, Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son, local cotton exporters, have purchased, according to reports current on the streets and among well-posted business men, more than half a block of water front property lying between Grace and Walnut streets, at a figure approximating $175,000. The transaction, it is understood, has been all but consummated, and awaits only the report of the attorney engaged in examining the titles, which will probably be made today.

Four different properties are involved in the transaction, these being the parcel belonging to the Fidelity Trust & Development Company, now occupied by the Baltimore & Carolina Steamship Company's terminals and others, which has a frontage of 400 fee: on Grace street, 200 feet on water and something over 400 feet deep on the north; a tract adjoining this on the north, belonging to the Boney & Harper Milling Company, 66 feet in width and running from Nutt street to the river; a parcel adjoining on the north, the property of the Burriss estate, extending through from Nutt street to the river, and a strip of six feet next north, belonging to H. L. Vollers and extending from Nutt to the river.

According to the reports on the street, the property purchased from the Fidelity is understood to have brought around $100,000; that from the Boney & Harper Milling Company approximately $35,000; that from the Burriss estate a similar figure, and the strip from Mr. Vollers about $5,000. Mr. J. V. Grainger, vice president of the murchison National bank, is said to have negotiated the purchase of the properties for Messrs. Sprunt & Son.

Rumors of the big deal have been current for some weeks, and during the last few days, when several payments are understood to have been made to bind the transactions, the knowledge has spread rapidly in business circles, so that by yesterday, while no announcement had been made by any of the parties interested, and, for that matter, none has yet been made, the deal was common knowledge in business circles.

According to the current reports, the Sprunt firm is purchasing the property with the view of providing larger storage facilities for the port of Wilmington, particularly for cotton. While it is understood, that no definite plans as to buildings have been worked out thus far, it is said to be the intention to erect there a very large warehouse of the most modern type.

The port has been handicapped in the past by a lack of ample store and terminal facilities, and the addition to such a structure as is understood will be erected on the property involved in the transfer will mean much in developing Wilmington's export and import trade.

A part of the property involved in the present transfer was included in the big deal of several years ago, when the Fidelity Trust and Development Company purchased a large block of property in this vicinity, for a total consideration of $150,0000 from the Worth estate. A part of this property has since been sold to different parties, and the remainder is understood to be included in the present transaction.

ACCIDENT AT FERRY

Mule Drowned Yesterday in Cape Fear When Flat Was Pushed Off.

A mule owned by the Clark-Lynch Lumber Company was drowned at the Market street ferry yesterday morning when a loaded wagon to which it was hitched was pulled into the Cape Fear river carrying the animal with it. The mule was already on the flat when the wagon struck the float in such a way as to force it away from the bank. The mule was worth about $200. The wagon which was loaded with lumber was recovered and the mule was also later in the day removed from the river.

Mr. A. O. Durant, who has been in charge of the ferry for the last 24 years, said last night that this is the first accident of any kind that he has ever had and that it was absolutely unavoidable.

BELGIANS GETTING RESULTS

Refugees at St. Helena Already Producing Crops for Their Support. Are Contented.

Recent reports concerning the families of Belgian refugees established in the community of St. Helena, Pender county, are very encouraging, and indicate that these people are admirably adapting themselves to American conditions.

The opportunities given the Belgians by the Carolina Trucking & Development Company in providing all necessary agricultural equipment and requisites have enabled the new settlers to secure very quick results, and they have already produced a considerable number of crops, primarily to be used for the purpose of the support of the family. One family arriving late in February, enjoyed on its own table onions grown in 33 days after arrival; radishes in 34 days; cabbage in 70 days; potatoes in 73 days, and beets in 84 days.

In each instance these crops were planted by the Belgian settler after his arrival, and the extremely short time in which such splendid results have been obtained indicate a tremendous advantage in making producers of the Belgian refugees in locating them on land, instead of holding them in detention camps during the war.

In addition to the vegetables mentioned above, of which the exact growing time is recorded, the Belgian families have eaten on their own tables four other crops grown by themselves since their arrival, and also have produced on their farms considerable quantities of milk and butter, in addition to having, only three months after their arrival, many other growing crops, including corn, cotton and forage.

They are busy and contented and there is every reason to believe that they will become established as independent farmers and make their permanent home in this section. It is also expected that after they have overcome the first difficulties confronting them, and have become a little more familiar with the American lands and methods, they will substitute and adapt to the local conditions many valuable agricultural and horticultural ideas brought by them from the old country.

The Belgian colony at St. Helena now numbers about 50 members, and more are expected to arrive from time to time. Recent reports from London are to the effect that a party of Belgian farmers will sail from Liverpool June 19th to take up farms in this section, the party having been made up by Rev. Dougald McFadyen, a member of the Belgian Relief Committee.

NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

Pedestrians Must Not Cut Corners at Front and Princess.

Watch your step!

An exceedingly timely admonition at Front and Princess streets yesterday. But most folks were watching other people's steps, and there was many a hearty laugh.

For a new traffic regulation went into effect there yesterday, whereby all pedestrians are required to turn corners square, and are not allowed to cut across the street, as they were wont to do so joyously when Belgian blocks were considered good form.

Standing in the center of the street an officer all day long was kept busy heading off those who would save time and directing them to follow the chalk lines marked off by the police early yesterday morning.

The average citizen was very much discomfited when halted in his hurrying dash across the street, a condition brought about possibly by the laughter from the groups collected on each corner to watch the fun.

The officers appeared to enjoy it, too, that is at first. Then the novelty wore off, and after one or two ladies had come off easily the victors in wordy arguments over the utter inanity of applying traffic regulations to human beings afoot, the collar around the neck of the stalwart wearer of the blue was seen to be exceedingly limp.

And then a bunch of mischievous ones made it up to further add to the officer's discomfiture, and, separating into four groups, one on each corner, one by one they headed diagonally across the street, a constant procession converging on the officer until he must have wished for a neck like an owl's.

However, the officers say that the danger from the ever increasing traffic on this corner necessitates the enforcement of the regulation put into effect yesterday, and that the people will soon get used to it.

HAVE PLEASANT DAY

Children and Friends of First Baptist Church Have Outing at Beach.

Over 800 children of the First Baptist church Sunday school spent the day at Wrightsville Beach yesterday as the guests of the Tidewater Power Company. Special cars left the city at 10 a. m. and the entire day was spent at Lumina. There were games, races and other features of interest. A splendid lunch was srved under the direction of a committee of which Mr. N. M. McEachern was chairman and Mr. B. T. Hopkins was chairman of the refreshment committee. Mr. Fred Hale had charge of the races which were thoroughly enjoyed by both old and young.

Mr. D. H. Howes, Jr., superintendent of the Sunday school, and Rev. W. M. Craig rendered faithful service in looking after the welfare of the children. There were also many of the members of the church present and the Sunday school is under many obligations to them for their valuable service in looking after the comfort and pleasure of the little ones.

The last Sunday school outing of the season will be given today when the Sunday school of Immanuel Presbyterian church and of South Wilmington mission will go down to the beach. Special cars will leave Front and Princess at 10 a. m. Mr. S. A. Matthews, superintendent of Immanuel Sunday school, and Mr. G. C. Bordeaux, superintendent of South Wilmington school, will accompany the children and assist the parents in looking after their comfort and welfare.

These outings for the Sunday schools of the city during the month of May which are given by the Tidewater Power Company are greatly appreciated the churches and the children have learned to look forward with much pleasure to the picnics.

POLICE HORSE IS NO MORE

Equine Members of Department Superseded by Bicycles—Squad Went Out Last Night.

The Wilmington police horse is no more. Er—, that is, all but one of him is no more, this one having been reserved for Sergeants Howell and Grimsley—both of whom weigh something over 300 pounds—to make their more extended rounds.

It's the bicycle squad, now, the mounted officers, in the interests of economy and efficiency, having been transformed into bicycle officers. Six in number, they went out on their wheels last night, for the first time.

The charge wa smade under the direction of Councilman James M. Hall, in charge of the police department, who has contracted with three concerns in the city to furnish wheels and keep them up at $5 a month each.

The wheels are of heavy type, equipped with mud guards, heavy coaster brakes, and other modern appliances. The members of the bicycle squad are: Officers J. O. Bullard, W. H. Rivenbark, S. H. Fulford, W. K. Rhodes, A. E. Munn and M. B. Haskett.

And with the beginning of the new fiscal year in the department, officers went on regular duty in Carolina Heights, Carolina Place, Carolina Court and Delgado, recently annexed, last night, for the first time. The officers stationed in this part of the city for the time being are Patrolmen J. R. Minshew and J. H. Dew.

FOR THE THIN AND SCRAWNY

Samose Will Make You Plump and Rosy Says J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co.

Try then to be healthy and plump; it is not difficult if you know how.

Fatness, happiness and health they all go together. How seldom you see a fat person who is not happy. On the other hand, thin people are unhappy and nervous. Use Samose and be well and fat and happy.

Weigh yourself before you begin using Samose. It will not cost you a cent unless it increases your weight and restores your health.

J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co. sells every package on a genuine guarantee to refund the money, if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

THEATRICAL

Mme. Olga Petrova, without the shadow of a doubt, one of the most versatile actresses, will make her second appearance in motion pictures in the Popular Plays and Players Company's production of the virile dramatic document "The Heart of a Painted Woman."

"The Heart of a Painted Woman" will be the third release of the Metro Pictures Corporation, and will make its screen appearance at the Victoria today. Alan Dale, the most celebrated dramatic critic of the day, says:

"I saw a picture release the other day that almost reconciled my jealous dramatic soul to the vogue that the "movies" have established for themselves. It was called "The Heart of a Painted Woman" and it was exceedingly fascinating and spectacular. The average "movies" leaves me absolutely cold, because it is usually undramatic, and I find it hard to concentrate myself upon its incessant changes. This told its story exquisitely and it was, moreover, admirably taken. It was the versatile actress Olga Petrova who played the "lead"—the second picture, I am told, that she has ever made. Well, to my mind, she has the well-established "movie" artists beaten at their own game. You could at least detect good acting and wonderful poise, and I'll venture to say that the pictorial ladies of the usual "movie" concerns fail to emphasize these. I've looked in vain among the favorites of the screen for any symptom for dramatic ability or magnetism and I've tried hard to discover these.

"A dramatic critic could review "The Heart of a Painted Woman" and could do himself justice—or in-justice, as the case might be; one could say and think things about it. I never slept once, and that is a record for me, as far as pictures are concerned. Usually a splendid drowsiness steals over me and my numbed facilties yield me no sensation. I won't say that I have made an exhaustive study of pictures, because that would be untrue. Others there may be just as good as "The Heart of a Painted Woman" but I have not seen them and, well, I'm from Missouri. In any case, you will admit that I am candid, and admit a certain ignorance. If I ever see anything better than the aforesaid picture, I'll come right out and say so."

Olga Petrova, at the Victoria Today.

"Baby" is Here!

Today is double-feature day at the home of "The Incomparable Movies," for in addition to the eighth thrilling episode of "The Black Box," that widely heralded two-reel comedy de luxe, "Baby," is here in all its glory. "Baby" is without doubt the greatest comedy of the year, the most screaming laughs from end to end, a feast of pure unmitigated joy. Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby have set a new high mark in humor of the best kind, and you want to see Harry as "Daddy" in this roaring farce.

The eighth installment of "The Black Box" will appeal to you if you love the wierd, the strange and unusual. You'll simply be spellbound, as Sanford Quest, first, searching through the family records of the Craig family, discovers some unusual and startling facts. Then there is a whirlwind dash to Europe in search of the elusive Craig, only to find that he has escaped from Scotland Yards officials. There's another mysterious Black Box shows up, too.

"When Cupid Crossed the Bar" is a screaming Nestor comedy, in which Jack Dillon and Billie Rhodes have put some of their very best work.

The great fleet parade, which was advertised to be shown yesterday, did not arrive. It was to come from Nashville, Tenn., and missed connection at Hamlet yesterday morning. However, it will positively be shown tomorrow, as the Bijou has secured the privilege of keeping it over so that their patrons may not miss it.

At the Grand Today.

The feature attraction at the Grand today is a three-reel Edison, with two old favorites working together again after a long separation. Marc McDermott and Miriam Nesbitt. Miss Nesbitt as the self-sacrificing elder sister in this drama, "Her Proper Place," is an interesting character study. She cherishes a secret adoration for a bachelor senator (McDermott) and eventually leaves home to earn her own livelihood, comes in contact with the senator and saves his life without revealing her identity and how they finally met and were married is interestingly shown in the remainder of this three-reel feature. "Only a Tramp," a Reliance drama, is an excellent production with Marian Cooper in the leading feminine role. The comedy number on the bill is the Royal "Checked Through," and tells of the tribulations of a stranded actress and how she finally got back to the old home.

Closing is the Hearst-Selig news pictorial with interesting events and the latest styles.

LITTLE NEW SENTIMENT

Is Inspired in Cotton by First Government Crop Report for the Season — Closed Steady.

New York, June 1. — The first government crop report of the season failed to create any fresh sentiment of consequence in the cotton market today and trading continued very quiet, prices closing steady net 1 point lower to 1 point higher. The market opened barely steady at a decline of 8 to 11 points, in response to relatively weak cables. There appeared to be considerable scattering liquidation, owing to nervousness over the international situation. Offerings, however, were by no means aggressive, and the market was steadied around the opening igures. Rallies of 4 or 5 points followed, but were barely maintained. The official condition of 80 per cent. against 79.5, the ten-year average was slightly under average expectations and led to a little flurry of local bull support and covering, on which the more active positions sold a point or two above Saturday's closing figures.

The close was a shade off from the best, under scattered realizing.

Futures closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Market Made Considerable Show of Strength in Yesterday's Session.

New Orleans, June 1.—Cotton made considerable show of strength today on wet weather in the Eastern half of the belt and late in the session stood 12 to 16 points over yesterday's last quotations. The close was at a net gain of 9 to 12 points. Less attention than usual was paid to the political situation and the first government report of the season on the condition of the crop putting the percentage at 80 on May 25, had no influence on values.

Around the opening the market had a waiting attitude. No great amount of selling appeared and prices went a couple of points under yesterday's close. The condition figures met average expectations and as soon as they were digested buying orders poured into the ring on the theory that the condition of the crop had fallen off since May 25 because of excessive rains. The forecast of more rain in the Atlantic states increased the buying movement in the afternoon.

Futures closed: July 9.09; October 9.47; December 9.65; January 9.76; March 9.97.

Spot quiet, unchanged; middling 9.93; sales on the spot 200 bales; to arrive 300.

GOVERNMENT COTTON REPORT

Condition Estimated at 80 Per Cent Throughout the Belt—North Carolina Above the Average.

Washington, June 1.—The newly planted cotton crop of the United States showed a condition of 80 per cent of a normal on May 25, the Department of Agriculture announced today in its first condition report of the season, which had been awaited with interest by cotton, textile and other interests. That condition compares with 74.3 on May 25 last year; 79.1 in 1913; 78.9 in 1912; 87.8 in 1911, and 79.5 the average for the past ten years on May 25.

Until the official report of the government estimating the area planted is issued June 1, no calculation will be made by the department's crop experts as to the probable size of the crop. The record yield last season, the decreased foreign takings because of the war, and the low price of cotton early this season, are believed to have influenced planters to reduce their planting to some extent. No official reports as to the extent of the reduction have been made, but unofficial estimates place the area planted at from 10 to 20 per cent less than last year. The preliminary estimate of the planted area last year made by the Department of Agriculture last July was 36,250,000 acres.

While the early season nearly everywhere in the cotton belt was backward for vegetation, planting operations were carried on successfully. The soil in the western part of the belt was well supplied with moisture, but eastward a drought developed. Toward May 1 excessive rains in Texas and Oklahoma made a replanting necessary to some extent but the drought in the East continued. An unfavorable week, except in the central states, followed. During the second week of the month good rains broke the drought in the eastern states but in the west conditions were unfavorable because of continued rains. The following week was the best in all portions of the belt the crop had had this season.

Generally favorable weather prevailed but little rain occurred in the belt during the final week of the month. The soil in those portions of the belt where rainfall was light was, in most cases, supplied, except locally in Mississippi and southern Texas, where the late planted needed more moisture and in Louisiana where the crop was suffering for lack of rain. In Oklahoma and portions of Arkansas the soil was too wet for cultivation and the crop was becoming grassy, but in all other portions of the belt the early planted was up to a good stand and well cultivated.

Comparisons of conditions on May 25, by states, follow:

	1915	1914	10-year Ave.

United States	80	74.3	79.5

The tentative dates for the issuance by the Department of Agriculture of reports on the condition, acreage and production of cotton this season are:

Thursday, July 1, condition as of June 25 and estimate of the area planted.

Monday, August 2, condition as of July 25.

Tuesday, August 31, condition as of August 25.

Saturday, October 2, condition as of September 25.

Friday, December 10, estimate of total production of the crop.

These reports will be announced at noon, Eastern time, on the dates named except the estimate of production, on December 10, which will be issued at 2 P. M.

STOCKS DULL AND HEAVY

Publication of Germany's Reply to the United States and Mexican Matters Cause a Reaction.

New York, June 1.—Stocks were dull and heavy today following the publication of Germany's reply to Washington's note of inquiry. Affairs in Mexico, which po intto decisive action by this government, also entered into speculative calculations. Opening prices were lower by one to three points, war specialties and other manipulated issues losing most ground. Later some of these stocks made general recoveries. Foreign exchange continued to reflect the sensitive state of the European markets. Local time loans were easier. Domestic developments were mainly favorable, ranging from the $2,000,000 net increase reported by the New York Central system for April to another dividend increase by one of the large copper companies. Western freight shipments of various classifications are up to last year's average.

Bonds easier with little investment inquiry. Total sales, par value aggregated $1,274,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE.

Crop Conditions Indicate Larger Yield Than Made Last Year the Cause.

Chicago, June 1. — Estimates that the 1915 crop of wheat in the United States would be 50,000,000 bushels more than was indicated for the growth at this time a year ago, had a good deal to do today with a sharp decline in prices. The market closed steady, but ¾ to 4¾ under Saturday night's figures. Other leading staples, too, showed a net loss: Corn, ⅞@1c. to 1⅛@1⅛; oats, 1¼@1⅜ to 1⅝@1⅞, and provisions, 5@7½ to 20.

Grain and provisions closed as follows:

Wheat—July, 1.31; September, 1.17¼.

Corn—July, 75½; September, 75⅝.

Oats—July, 47⅛; September, 43½.

Pork—July, 18.02; September, 18.35.

Lard—July, 9.77; September, 10.02.

Ribs—July, 10.57; September, 10.87.

Cash grain:

Wheat—No. 2, red, 133; No. 2, hard, 136@138.

Corn—No. 2, yellow, 75@75¾.

REUNION ADDRESS BY DR. H. W. BATTLE

Makes Stirring Appeal For Peace Among All Nations.

CAUSES OF CIVIL WAR

Former Greensboro Pastor Tells of South's Motives, Eulogizes Men and Women of That Period and Talks Peace.

Richmond, Va., June 1.—A stirring appeal for the end of war and for peace among all nations, was made by Dr. Henry W. Battle, of Charlottesville, Va., in his "Reunion Address" here today at the gathering of the United Confederate Veterans. Dr. Battle reviewed the causes of the war between the states and told of the South's motives, eulogized the men and women who bore the hardships of that conflict and concluded with a tribute to the united people, pursuing the paths of peace, that has been the outcome of the strife. He said in part:

"At sunrise on the 9th of April, 1865, a little band of cavalry under Fitz Lee and Gordon's Infantry, scarcely 2,000 in all, prepared to charge. Not a man in that attenuated fragment of the glorious army of Northern Virginia, but knew that charge might witness the last gasp of the dying Confederacy; not a man but would have gladly given his life if by that supreme sacrifice strength to survive and conquer might have been imparted to the cause for which he fought and suffered four long years. The command to charge is given; the air thrills and resounds with the Rebel yell. Vain! Vain! Vain! An avalanche of Federal reinforcements presses them back, not empty-handed, but with captured cannon and prisoners.

"Gordon sends General Lee word that he has fought his troops 'to a frazzle.' 'Then,' said Lee, 'there is nothing for me to do, but go and see General Grant, and I would rather die a thousand deaths.' An officer protests: 'What will history say of the surrender of the army in the field?' 'Yes,' replied Lee, 'I know they will say hard things of us; they will not understand how we were overwhelmed by numbers. But this is not the question; the question is, is it right to surrender the army? If it is right, then I will take all the responsibility.' That was just like Robert E. Lee.

"But General Lee, in that anguish-fraught hour, was mistaken: History will not say hard things of him and of the Confederate soldier. I know that scribblers have dipped their pens in vitriol and that naturally fair and judicial minds have been beclouded by prejudice, but with each succeeding year the day of the Southern Confederacy's complete vindication draws nearer. When that time shall come, the student of impartial history will perceive that, when the ties that bound the colonies to the British crown were severed the sovereignty which they had vested in the crown reverted to the colonies, as independent political units. He will read how those political units finally entered into solemn compact forming a general government for the protection and furtherance of mutual interests without the surrender of sovereignty essential to political integrity. He will mark with what jealous care the several communities, now called states, sought, in entering the compact, to safeguard this priceless treasure while delegating other things to the Federal government. Then he will behold the economic interests of one great section as affected by soil and climate arrayed against those of another, and a domestic institution, safeguarded by the Constitution, utilized and fostered in the beginning by one section, made the occasion for the fiercest and most fanatical denunciation of the other.

"In view of the tragedy that followed, he might well weep bitter tears that when the moral sense of the South—never at perfect ease over the institution of slavery—was struggling with the complicated problem of how best to wipe the stain off her escutcheon—best for the race that Old England and New England had foisted upon her—the incendiary conduct of the Northern section made of every true son of the South a champion of that which deep down in his heart he longed to be rid of, I utterly deny that the South seceded from the Union and poured out her heroic blood to maintain the institution of African slavery. * * * It was what was back of and around that issue. The South believed it was her inalienable right to peaceably withdraw from the compact.

"It is in my heart to say that the truly noble, unselfish conduct of Southern slaves during the war when our men were at the front and our women and children almost wholly under their protection, is a complete refutation of the slander which branded that domestic relationship at the South as 'the sum of all villainies.' The Southern gentleman and the Southern gentlewoman were never cruel. They gave to their slaves a watchful care and solicitude unique and beautiful. 'Old Mistess' and 'Old Master' were words spoken lovingly in those days. Had it been otherwise, think you the millions of negroes in Southern homes and plantations would not have risen in their might and thrown off their fetters by deeds which would have sent fathers and husbands and brothers rushing back from the front to protect their dear ones?"

LUMBERTON MAN IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR HICKORY, N. C.

Automobile Smashed by Engine of the Southern Railway.

Hickory, N. C., June 1.—J. A. Biggs, of Lumberton, and E. C. Bridges, of Lattimore, are in a hospital here in serious condition as a result of an accident which befell them at Conover a few miles from here yesterday, when the automobile in which they were riding was run into and smashed to pieces by the tender of a light engine of the Southern Railway, which was running backward. Biggs' arm was broken and he was otherwise bruised up; Bridges is suffering with concussion of the brain and may die.

Immediately after the accident physicians went from here to attend to the wounded men and both were brought here and placed in a hospital. But little hope is held for Bridges' recovery while Biggs has a fair chance to get well. The light runabout in which they were traveling was completely demolished and scattered along the track for a number of yards. The car was being driven by Bridges.

HOW TOBACCO MAY BE EXPORTED TO HOLLAND

Explained in Cablegram to the State Department.

Result of Action by Senator Overman Upon Complaint of Discrimination by American Tobacco Merchants—Oversea Trust.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 1.—Upon the complaint of North Carolina tobacco merchants that American tobacco was being discriminated against in favor of The Netherlands and colonies, Senator Overman started an investigation, and today the State Department sent him the following cablegram from the American minister at The Hague:

"Tobacco from The Netherlands colonies may come to Holland consigned to agents of colonial estates for sale at auction without restriction, to both neutrals and belligerents. Tobacco from all other sources must be consigned to Netherlands Oversea Trust and may not be exported to belligerent countries. This is not discrimination made by Netherlands government but modus-vivendi arranged by Allies with Oversea Trust based on theory that Netherlands and colonies are one country."

Elder P. D. Gold, of Wilson, preached at one of the Washington churches last night. Elder Gold, who is accompanied by Mrs. Gold, is en route to Pennsylvania and New York where the veteran clergyman will preach during the next few weeks.

Among today's arrivals are Representative John H. Small, Alexander Sprunt & Son, of Wilmington, and E. J. Justice, of Greensboro. Mr. Justice is here in conference with Attorney General Gregory with reference to the government's land suits on the Pacific coast which Mr. Justice is handling with great credit to himself and his State.

Miss Minnie Galbraith, of Asheville, is here to work with the Y. W. C. A. at the summer boarding house at Cherydale, just across the Potomac in Virginia. P. R. A.

down through the earth, and the earth sitteth still and is at rest.' "

Uphold the President.

Frequent references to the European war were made at the conventions and also at that of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans who cheered a pledge of support to the President of the United States in upholding the honor of the nation which was voiced by Clarence J. Owens, of Washington, D. C. These declarations were interspersed with tributes to Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and other leaders of the Confederacy, among them General J. E. B. Stuart, whose widow appeared on the platform at Convention Hall and was greeted with an uproarious ovation. The tribute to Jeffesron Davis was delivered by General B. W. Green, who asserted that the life of the President of the Confederacy "one of patriotism, nobility and sincerity, challenges the world's admiration."

General Julian S. Carr eulogized the "Confederate Soldier" and aroused from the throats of his rugged listeners repeated "rebel yells."

The Southern hosts were welcomed to Richmond by Governor H. C. Stuart, Mayor George Ainslie and Judge D. G. Tyler, who spoke in behalf of the Veterans of Virginia.

"Fifty years ago," said Governor Stuart," the situation of the Confederate States of America had just gone down in clouds and darkness. The Capital City prostrate, a mass of blackened walls and smouldering ruins, the men and women who had borne with heroic fortitude four years of siege and suffering with the last shots of the Confederacy yet ringing in their ears, were laying in the ashes of their buried hope the foundation of the nobler and statelier city in which we are now assembled."

Compared With Belgium.

Judge Tyler compared the Confederacy to Belgium in his address to the Veterans.

"If ever the dream of universal peace shall be realized," he said, "it will be due to the acceptance of the nations of the principles for which the Confederate soldier died—the cause for which Washington threw off his allegiance to Great Britain and that for which gallant Belgium is being immolated. In the terrible picture, Belgium stands out in splendid contrast, enhaloed with the glory of a noble martyrdom. We, too, have tasted of the same bitter cup that Belgium is quaffing, and we drained it to the lees. We, too, trusted to 'a little scrap of paper' and found what a mockery it was. But no matter how the issue may be determined, Belgium will find, as we of the South have found, truer glory and nobler recompense than will the victor of the Dardanelles or the conqueror of Russia."

The convention was presided over by General George P. Harrison, Alabama, acting for the commander-in-chief, General Bennett H. Young, who was kept away at the last minute, because of illness and who, it is reported tonight, will be re-elected to command. Throughout the day special trains continued to reach Richmond from all parts of the South and with promises of fairer skies, the events of the next few days which will reach a climax in laying a foundation for a monument to Stonewall Jackson next Thursday, promises to eclipse all past reunions of the Confederacy.

Tonight a ball was given in honor of fair sponsors of the Veterans from the various states. Attracting wide attention was Miss Mary Mustis Lee, only surviving child of General Robert E. Lee. A portrait of Miss Lee will be unveiled tomorrow by Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, at the Confederate Home for Women.

MISSISSIPPI ANTIFRAT LAW HAS BEEN PASSED.

Which Prohibits Fraternities at the State Educational Institutions.

Washington, June 1.—The constitutionality of the Mississippi anti-fraternity law was upheld by the Supreme Court today in a unanimous decision. The first case to come before the Supreme Court involving the constitutionality of a state anti-fraternity law was that of J. P. Waugh, who sought admission to the University of Mississippi.

NEWS OF A DAY FROM THE STATE'S CAPITAL

Governor Craig Grants Pardon to Prisoners.

Episcopal Conference Has Good Opening—Change in Big Printing House —Columbus in Limelight —Charters Issued.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 1.—Governor Craig granted a pardon today to Seth Wood, Haywood county, who has served nearly four years of a five year sentence for second degree murder. It is a conditional pardon, future good behavior being exacted. In his statement of reasons, the Governor says that the prisoner is a boy of 16 or 18 years old and that while the assault of which he was convicted was violent and vicious, he acted under great provocation and dealt the fatal injury in the heat of the encounter.

Another pardon is for D. M. Tyner, Scotland county, who has served one year of a four years' sentence for embezlement. In this case there has been satisfactory restitution of the property embezzled and all parties to the case ask for the pardon.

Episcopal Conference.

The fifth annual Conference of Clergy and Laity of the Episcopal church in North and South Carolina at St. Mary's school, this city, is opening splendidly. This was the first working day of the Conference, which continues through Friday. Vital problems of the church and the Sunday school are being treated by able specialists and discussed by the members of the conference generally. The social service work is being presented by Rev. Augustus Elmindorf, of New Jersey. The study of General Religious Education is being led by Dr. Lester Bradner, of New York. The Laymen's Missionary Movement comes in for stirring presentation by Rev. Robert W. Patton, secretary of the Board of Missions for the Fourth (Sewanee) province. The conference is proving a delightful and most profitable homelike season for the churchmen, visiting and local, who are taking advantage of its opportunities.

Charters Issued.

Charters were issued by the State today as follows for new corporations:

The Farmers' Hardware and Implement Company, of Charlotte, capital $20,000 authorized and $7,000 subscribed by Robert Barr, George J. Miller, W. A. Matheson and W. A. Matheson, Jr., for general hardware business.

The Chemical Lime Company, of Newbern, files an amendment to its charter whereby the capital stock is reduced from $100,000 to $12,000, the stockholders being specified as being C. D. Bradham, F. M. Simmons, J. D. Farrior and L. I. Moore, each having $25,000.

Important Business Change.

Dr. Charles Lee Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Edwards & Broughton Printing Company, has purchased the interest of the heirs of the late N. B. Broughton in the business and a reorganization of the company is to follow, but, it is announced, without any change in the general policy and scope of the business, which includes a large share of the State printing.

The Columbus county public school management tried out a novel scheme for inducing perfect attendance on the schools the past session by offering to furnish to all who made perfect attendance record for the term a certificate to that effect bearing the signatures of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Governor of the State. As a result Governor Craig and State Superintendent Joyner have just been called upon to affix their signatures to thirty such certificates for the Columbus schools. They do this gladly, but clearly if this practice were to extend very much over the State the Chief Executive and the State Superintendent would be forced to "beg leave to print."

him there under the name of Paul Willams.

Walker's attorneys profess to be highly satisfied with the outcome of the case, declaring that with the sentiment against their client they would have hardly been able to keep him from the electric chair had the case gone to trial.

On the other hand, Messrs. Cranmer & Davis, of Southport, who were employed by the administrator of Sheriff Stanland's estate to assist in the prosecution, say that they are well satisfied with the outcome of the case, and that their client, too is satisfied.

Was a Remarkable Case.

Yesterday's sentence comes as the final chapter in one of the most sensational criminal cases in the history of North Carolina. On the night of November 20, 1908, Sheriff Jackson Stanland and Deputy Sheriff J. E. Robinson, now sheriff of Brunswick county, attempted to arrest Walker at the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Frank Leonard, on a charge of desertion from the army and storebreaking. Walker drew an automatic pistol and emptied it at the officers, three bullets lodging in Sheriff Stanland's body and one cutting through Deputy Robinson's clothes. The sheriff and his deputy, however, managed to place Walker under arrest, and he was removed to the jail at Southport. Sheriff Stanland died the following night from the wounds inflicted by Walker.

The following February Walker and Will Dudley, a companion, also confined in jail, made their escape, after unlocking the door of their cell with keys made by Walker and knocking the jailer unconscious. Sheriff J. J. Knox, the present chairman of the Board of Commissioners of Brunswick county, who had succeeded Sheriff Stanland, organized a posse and set out in pursuit. The fugitives were first seen on Lockwood's Folly river, near the cost, and from here the chase led into the wilds of the Green swamp.

With the posse always only a short distance behind, the two men managed to elude officers for four or five days, when they were cornered at Heading Swamp, where Dudley was arrested. Several shots were fired at Walker at this time, but he again managed to escape into the swamps, and several days later was reported to have been been at Dupree Landing, on Lake Waccamaw. From this point the posse was never able to trace him, and for six years his whereabouts remained a mystery to the officers here.

Arrested in Wilmington.

On Sanday, March 7, of this year, Walker was seen and recognized by Capt. J. W. Dixon, of Supply, N. C., as he was eating dinner in Savage's restaurant on Princess street. Captain Nixon immediately got in touch with the county and city officers, and half hour later Walker was arrested as he was leaving a boat at the foot of Princess street. The officers taking part in the arrest were: Deputy Sheriff A. L. Kelly, Plainclothesmen Leon George and D. W. Coleman, Policeman C. H. Jones, Constable John H. Davis and Special Officer H. Mack Godwin, to whom rewards aggregating some $500 or more were paid.

Walker was removed to Southport the following day, and confined in jail there. When arraigned several months later, his attorneys moved for a change of venue on the ground that he could not obtain a fair trial in Brunswick on account of the feeling against him. Judge Justice, presiding, allowed the motion, and moved the case to Pender county.

In the meantime, another sensational incident in connection with the case occurred. Rumors had been heard that Walker was wanted in Oklahoma for killing an officer there. On the W. B. & S. train, headed for Southport, one morning, an army surgeon read in The Star an interview with Sheriff J. E. Robinson, in which he stated that he had been advised by a Mississippi detective agency that Walker, under the name of Paul Williams, had killed a man in Muskogee county, Oklahoma, in the fall of 1909, and had been sentenced to 30 years in the State penitentiary, but had escaped after serving only a year or so. The army man, it so happened, had been a resident of Muskogee county at the time Paul Williams killed the officer there, had treated Williams' wounds, and had appeared as a State's witness in the case.

Sheriff Robinson happened to be on the train that morning, and the army man met him and talked the case over with him. Arriving at Southport, he was taken to the jail, where he identified Walker as the man wanted in Oklahoma as Paul Williams. Sheriff Robinson found that his description of the gunshot wounds on Williams' body exactly fitted the wounds on Walker's body.

many motor cars, quickly left the camp.

"A munitions depot of the enemy, north of Sainte Menehould and northeats of Verdun, was blown up.

"As a reprisal for the bombardment of the open town of Ludwigshafen, we threw numerous bombs last night on wharves and docks of London. Enemy airmen last night bombarded Ostend, damaging some houses without causing any other injury.

"In the eastern theatre of war, near Amboten, 50 kilometers (about 30 miles) east of Libau, Courland, German cavalry defeated the Russian four regiment of dragoons. Near Shavli, hostile attacks were unsuccessful. Our booty in the month of May north of the Niemen river amounts to 24,700 prisoners, 17 cannon and 47 machine guns; south of the Niemen and the Pilica, 6,943 prisoners, 11 machine guns and one aeroplane.

"In the southeastern theatre of war: In front of Przemysl, Bavarian troops yesterday stormed Forts 10-A, 11-A and 12-A west of Dunkowiczki, capturing the remainder of a garrison of 1,400 men, with 18 heavy and five light cannon. The Russians attempted to escape their fate by an attack in masses against our positions east of Jaroslau, but failed, an enormous number of dead covering the battlefield before our front.

"The conquerors of Zwinin (a ridge in the Carpathians)—the Prussian Guard under command of the Bavarian general Count Bothmer—stormed a strongly fortified place on the Stry, and broke through Russians positions near and northwest of Stry. Up to the present time we have captured in this region 53 officers, 9,182 men, eight cannon and 15 machine guns."

not be armed and American collectors were instructed to allow no British ships to clear if guns were mounted or concealed.

In one case at New Orleans recently guns were found and clearance refused until taken from the ship. All outbound vessels have been examined by American officials for guns, mounted, or stored in the holds.

The question of foreign merchantmen carrying armament was first brought to the attention of the State Department by the German embassy when the British steamer Adriatic arrived last summer with guns mounted.

It was then the department entered into its unofficial negotiations with Great Britain to secure the disarming of all vessels. Officials since then had taken for granted that any deviations from this arrangement would be promptly brought to its attention by the German government.

INTEREST IN ROME

Italian People Eagerly Watch Developments Between U. S. and Germany.

Rome, (via Paris), June 1.—The German reply to the American note has aroused much interest here. The sentiment in political circles is that it is entirely inadequate, so much so that it places the United States in an embarrassing position as to how to enforce her wishes if she does not go to war."

CALOMEL IS MERCURY! IT SICKENS! ACTS ON LIVER LIKE DYNAMITE

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Starts Your Liver Better Than Calomel and Doesn't Salivate or Make You Sick.

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.
